METHODIST EPISCOPAL CONFER-ENCE RESUMES BUSINESS TODAY.

Rev. Drs. Nicholson and Wilson Elected Alternate Delegates to General Conference.

The second week of the Baltimore conference of the M. E. Church began at 9:30 o'clock this morning, at the Metropolitan M. E. Church. The session was opened, as usual, with devotional exercises. Business egan with the adoption of a motion to refer all matter of miscellaneous causes to the committee on public worship.

Rev. Dr. Lanahan announced that he could not promise to attend the general conference, and the first order of the day, which was the election of two alternates to the general conference, was taken up. While the tellers were out the secretary read the following list of appointments, as made by Bishop Walden: G. W. Hyde, Seaman's Union Bethel, Baltimore; W. G. Cassard and H. H. Clark, chaplains in the navy; Dr. A. H. Ames, superintendent of Deaconess Home; Dr. G. H. Corry, professor in Diekinson College; Dr. John F. Goucher, president Woman's College; Dr. J. B. Van Meter, professor Woman's College; F. J. Wagner and C. E. Young, professors in Morgan College; L. T. Wideman, agent Bible Society; Dr. John Lanahan, agent book depository; L. T. Townsend, professor Gannon Institute; R. L. Wright, superintendent City Missionary and Church Extension Society; Rev. W. S. Wright was given leave to continue studies at Dickinson College. made by Bishop Walden: G. W. Hyde, Sea-

John H. Jeffrey, by East Baltimore; N. E. R. Reck and W. W. Costen, by Washington: H. N. Rider, by Frederick.

The committee on ministerial qualifications submitted a report recommending H. N. Rider, R. G. Koontz, N. E. R. Reck and W. W. Costen as qualified candidates. Action on the other candidates was deferred until tomorrow, when the matter will be considered in executive session.

The tellers returned and reported that Rev. J. C. Nicholson had received ninety-seven votes for alternate, and his election was announced. Another ballot was ordered.

dered. Dr. Sunderland Speaks.

Then an interesting incident occurred. The venerable Dr. Byron Sunderland, who for years was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Washington, was introduced by Bishop Walden and made a brief but characteristic address of greeting, which was received with great applause.

The tellers returned, and the report that Rev. Dr. L. B. Wilson had received 114 votes and was chosen as the remaining alternate was made and was greeted with cordial manifestations.

the Gospel by missionary work everywhere.
The session closed with memorial services held in honor of the members of the conference who had passed away during the year.
The anniversary service of the Baltimore branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society is in progress this afternoon at the Metropolitan M. E. Church. The president, Mrs. A. H. Eaton, is in charge of the program, which includes Scripture reading by Mrs. T. H. Addison, prayer by Mrs. E. B.
Stevens, addresses by Mrs. S. D. La Fetra,
Mrs. S. M. Hartsock, Miss Clara Cushman and Bishop Walden, and a solo by Miss Elizabeth Wahley.
The Epworth League will hold its conference anniversary tonight, and prominent churchmen will deliver addresses on the accomplishments of the league in aiding pastors and churches.

Ordination Services.

Ordination Services.

CONGRESS AND THE CAPITAL.

The Delayed Project of Acquiring Avenue Sites for Public Buildings. From the Washington Post (today). The Post does not believe there is any member of either House of Congress who doubts that, at some time or other, and at no very distant period, the government will acquire the grounds south of Pennsylvania avenue, and north of those which it now owns, and will carry out a comprehensive plan of improvement which will make Washington indisputably "the most beautiful capital in the world." The Post has no doubt that if the American people understood the situation, if they knew the relation which the acquisition of those grounds bears to the future of their capital, they would wonder at the delay of Congress. No Congressman has ever lost a vote for having manifested an interest in promoting improvements at the national headquarters. The few Congressmen whose narrow minds and stunted public spirit have prompted them to seek popular favor by adopting a niggardly policy toward the capital have signally falled to realize on their investment. Take the roster of any Congress that has ever assembled in Washington, point out the names of its most illustrious members, and you will have the list of those who strove most earnestly to carry out the grand conception of the founder of this city, the peerless patriot whose name it bears.

the nation's growth—a story unmatched in the world's history for great achievements—and they look to Congress to see to it that the nation's capital keeps pace with the nation.

This reputilic is going out of the nineteenth into the twentieth century with more to its credit than any other power on the globe. We believe that in leaving behind a century of grand progress it enters upon a century of progress still more grand. That its people will fall to make and to keep their capital what it should be, we have no doubt. There will be an increasing realization, as the years go on, of the unique position in which the people are placed with regard to this city and District. In no other country do the people own and govern their capital. Therefore in no other are all the people interested in and responsible for the political metropolis. There is but one city in the United States whose citizens take no part in electing the officials who rule the capital; that solitary exception is the capital itself.
